What If I Am Lost?

Allen Webster

Watch
on youtube

Salvation is always from something—saved from a burning building, from drowning, from cancer. A great hero requires a great villain:

- Superman had Lex Luther.
- Batman had the Joker.
- Sherlock Holmes had Professor Moriarty.
- The Chicago Bulls had the Detroit Pistons in the 1980s/90s.

When Jesus came, the world did not need a political leader. Political leaders had come and gone, but the world was still lost. Man did not need a philosopher. The great philosophers—Aristotle (384–382 BC), Plato (428–348 BC), and Socrates (470–399 BC)—had already lived, but humanity sat in darkness. The world did not need a reformer to adjust society's wheels, levers, and pulleys (adapted from unknown source). It needed something never seen before. When Luke recorded, "Unto you is born this day . . . a Savior" (Luke 2:11), a wave of hope was felt across the land. In Jesus was all human nature, all divine nature, all past history, all future possibility (John 1:14).

A SECOND DEATH

Not only did man need a Savior two thousand years ago, he needs a Savior now. Every person has a fatal spiritual condition called sin (Romans 3:23; 6:23). Sin is a spiritual

- Disease (Isaiah 1:6). Thankfully, Jesus is the Great Physician (Matthew 9:12).
- Debt (Acts 2:38; Matthew 6:12; 18:24). Thankfully, Jesus is rich and paid it in full for us (Colossians 2:13). (Remission is a financial term referring to debts.)
- Death (Ephesians 2:1). Thankfully, Jesus is life (John 14:6) and the resurrection (John 11:25).

Spiritual death is similar to physical death, but more painful (Luke 16:23). It not only separates from loved ones, it also separates from God (Matthew 25:12). Both remove all freedom to choose something better (Luke 16:26).

The problem is that most sinners do not understand their condition. Like one with stage IV cancer, sinners never consider treatment. Madeleine L'Engle's novel, A Severed Wasp, offered a graphic image of human lostness. Based on a George Orwell essay in which he described a wasp that “was sucking jam on my plate and I cut him in half. He paid no attention, merely went on with his meal, while a tiny stream of jam trickled out of his severed esophagus. Only when he tried to fly away did he grasp the dreadful thing that had happened to him.” People without Christ are dead in sin, but unaware, so they continue to consume life’s sweetness. Only when it is time to fly away will they grasp their dreadful condition.<sup>1</sup>

Jesus is the world’s greatest hero. He saves man from his greatest enemy—death (Luke 24:45–47). Every person needs Jesus. No one can take His place.

- A physician may save your life (Job 2:4).
- A lawyer may save your business.
- An accountant may save your money (cf. Matthew 4:8–9; Luke 12:20).
- A coach may save your athletic career.
- A consultant may save your reputation.
- But only Jesus can save your soul (Matthew 16:26; 1 Peter 1:8–9).<sup>2</sup>

Jesus conquered what had conquered us—sin, Satan, and death. He conquered death “when he ascended up on high, he led captivity captive” (Ephesians 4:7–8). He spares saints from the second death (Revelation 21:8; James 5:20).

WHAT IT MEANS TO BE LOST

To be lost is to face insufferable shame. New England statesman Daniel Webster (1782–1852) was possibly the greatest orator America has produced. He was described as “one who walked like a man, but spoke as a god.” When Secretary of State under Millard Fillmore, Webster dined with twenty gentlemen at the Astor House in New York. He was reticent from conversation that night, so one asked him this question: “Mr. Webster, will you tell me the most important thought that ever occupied your mind?”

Webster passed his hand over his forehead, saying in a low tone, “Is there anyone here who does not know me?”

“No,” said he, “all are your friends.”

Then Webster said so all could hear, “My gravest thought has been that I shall someday stand before God in judgment and give an account of how I have lived”

(Burleson). He talked of this for twenty minutes, then retired to his room.

In the third year of Persian King Cyrus, an angel spoke of the final judgment saying many that sleep in the earth “shall awake, some to everlasting life, and some to shame and everlasting contempt” (Daniel 12:2). Imagine standing at Judgment and having all of one’s sins read aloud before all the inhabitants of heaven. Then imagine being summarily dismissed to hell in their hearing.

Graphic language shows the humiliation in the afterlife: They shall “look upon the carcasses of the men that have transgressed against me . . . and they shall be an abhorring unto all flesh” (Isaiah 66:24). When heaven’s inhabitants see how awful God’s wrath is, they will fall down and worship Him. How ashamed would we be to be at the center of that spectacle (cf. Revelation 14:10).

To be lost is to face God’s unspeakable wrath. The Bible speaks of God’s fury. God is angry with the wicked every day (Psalm 7:11). He “will come with fire, and with his chariots like a whirlwind, to render his anger with fury, and his rebuke with flames of fire” (Isaiah 66:15).

In some ways, sinners already face God’s wrath, but the Bible speaks of something worse—full and eternal retribution. If one has not been delivered “from the wrath to come” (1 Thessalonians 1:10), then it will be “a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God” (Hebrews 10:31). The Spirit shall not always strive with man (Genesis 6:3). A day will come when the Almighty shall release His irresistible wrath on unprepared sinners.

When God makes His power known (Romans 9:22), the unrighteous will wish they had never been born. The wicked will plead for pity, but God’s mercy will have ended. His enemies will be as chaff before a whirlwind and stubble before devouring flames (Malachi 4:1). Sinners will say to mountains, “Fall on us, and hide us from the face of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb: for the great day of his wrath is come” (Revelation 6:16–17).

Isaiah pictured it, “I will tread them in mine anger, and trample them in my fury; and their blood shall be sprinkled upon my garments” (Isaiah 63:3–4).<sup>3</sup>

God’s wrath is like great waters behind a dam rising higher and higher (Revelation 19:15). One day the dam will break.

To be lost is to face unbearable hell (Luke 16:19–31). Hell’s frightening concepts are:

- Beating (Luke 12:48).
- Torment (Luke 16:23).
- Separation (Matthew 25:46). The wicked shall be escorted from the presence of God and all the saved (Romans 2:7–9; 2 Thessalonians 1:6–9).
- Outer darkness (Matthew 8:12; 22:13).
- Unquenchable fire (Matthew 5:22; Revelation 20:10–14).

To be lost, is to be everlastingly without Christ. Only Christians possess heavenly citizenship (Philippians 3:20). At Judgment Day, Jesus will tell sinners that He does not know them, and that they are unwelcome at His house (Matthew 7:23; 25:12). A sinner will be a sheep without the Shepherd (Luke 15:1–7), a traveler without a way (John 14:6), a hungry man without bread (John 6:41), a weary pilgrim without a resting place (Matthew 11:28–30), a student without a teacher (John 3:2; Mark 12:14), a soldier without a captain (Hebrews 2:10), a branch without a vine (John 15:1–7), and an introvert without a friend (Luke 7:34). Sadly, he will be a child with no inheritance (Acts 20:32), a criminal with no advocate (1 John 2:1), and a soul with no Savior (Matthew 16:26). Sinners will be with no share in heaven’s treasures (John 14:1–2).

To be lost is to be permanently hopeless. Hope (elpis) refers to a “joyful and confident expectation of eternal salvation.”

- God has begotten us “unto a lively hope by the resurrection” (1 Peter 1:3).
- Hope awaits in heaven (Colossians 1:5).
- Christ in us is the hope of glory (Colossians 1:27).
- We are not to sorrow as others who have no hope (1 Thessalonians 4:13).
- Christ is our hope (1 Timothy 1:1).
- Every man that has this hope purifies himself (1 John 3:3)

How pitiful to be hopeless! French scientists once experimented on a criminal convicted for murder and sentenced to death. They strapped him down and explained that an artery would be severed resulting in his bleeding to death. They then made only a superficial wound, and poured warm water over his arm, which he thought was blood. He died with a few minutes, convinced the situation was hopeless (source unknown).

To be lost is to be eternally without God. The Greek word atheos (from which comes atheist), only found in Ephesians 2:12 in the New Testament, can mean “abandoned by the gods.” God eventually gives up on rebellious sinners (Romans 1:28–32) because they set aside His counsel, and want not of His reproof, so He will laugh at their calamity (Proverbs 1:25–31). How sad to be abandoned by God!

THE URGENCY OF REACHING THE LOST

Sinners walk on slippery places every minute of every day and may fall any second (Psalm 73:18). The devil sees them as prey. The old serpent is coiled and hissing, with his mouth open to swallow them up. Black clouds of wrath hang over them. God’s bow is bent; the arrow is on the string. One day that arrow will pierce every sinner’s heart.<sup>4</sup>

A wise person rushes to prepare (2 Peter 1:10). No sinner can stand before One with power to pick the earth up and shake it like a blanket or roll heaven back like a scroll. Once the end comes, no changes can be made (Revelation 22:11). Paul said, “Knowing . . . the terror of the Lord, we persuade men” (2 Corinthians 5:11).

Gaining entrance into the kingdom is worthy of the most strenuous effort.

James Denney said, “The kingdom is not for the well-meaning but for the desperate.”<sup>5</sup> Men are bidden to seek (zeitein) the kingdom (Matthew 6:33), which means “Make the kingdom the object of your endeavor.” Men are said to press (biasesthai) into the kingdom (Matthew 11:12), a word sometimes used of attackers storming a city.

The kingdom is worth any sacrifice. Jesus spoke in hyperbole of surgically removing body parts that hinder from salvation (Mark 9:43–48). The kingdom is equated with life itself. Compare Mark 9:43, 45 with Mark 9:47. In the first two verses life is spoken of; in the third the kingdom is spoken of, and the meaning is the same.<sup>6</sup> The rich young ruler requested guidance on finding eternal life (Matthew 19:16). After his tragic choice, Jesus spoke of how difficult it is for the rich to enter the kingdom (Matthew 19:23).

God wants no one to miss it. He “will have all men to be saved, and to come unto the knowledge of the truth” (1 Timothy 2:4).

The Very First Verse

The Bible’s first verse contains five basic facts
about science:

1. Time: In the beginning
2. Force: God
3. Action: Created
4. Space: Heaven
5. Matter: Earth

Remarkable, isn’t it?

*“In the beginning God created the heavens
and the earth.”*

House to House Heart to Heart

Many of us learned to sing “Jesus Loves Me” long before we really knew who Jesus is. That can be good—but it can also cause problems.

We often study the Bible backward. We start with the New Testament and only later—if ever—get around to the Old. But that’s not how the Bible was written, and it’s not how God’s people studied for the first 4,000 years. They knew the Old Testament well, which helped them understand the New!

Join us for a weekly online Bible study as we walk through the Old Testament, tracing words like church, gospel, and Jesus long before the manger or the cross. By the end of the study, you’ll be able to open your Bible and know the story that ties it all together.

Booth Saved Lincoln

The very title might offend some people, but it is the truth. Of course, context helps.

It was Edwin Booth, not John Wilkes. And it was Robert, not Abraham, Lincoln. Edwin and Robert were among customers buying passage on a sleeping car in Jersey City, New Jersey. Lincoln lost his balance and fell into an open space between the train and the station platform. By all accounts, he would have been crushed and likely killed if Edwin had not “vigorously seized” and “quickly pulled up and out” onto the platform (Letters of Note: Volume 1: An Eclectic Collection of Correspondence Deserving of a Wider Audience. Chronicle Books. 2014. p. 282).

Context can be very helpful. Without it, we can draw some erroneous and even fatal conclusions. This is especially true with the Bible, a book many may know a little about but neglect to study with depth and purpose. Doctrines and conclusions are based on statements taken out of context.

- “Believe in the Lord Jesus, and you will be saved” (Acts 16:31).
- “The Lord hardened Pharaoh’s heart” (Exodus 9:12; 10:20; 14:8).
- “Jacob I loved, but Esau I hated” (Malachi 1:2; Romans 9:13).
- “Whoever calls on the name of the Lord will be saved” (Joel 2:32; Acts 2:21; Romans 10:13).
- “Where two or three are gathered together in My name, I am there in their midst” (Matthew 18:20).

Sometimes, the content of a verse is understood better just by reading the verses before and after it. That is the case is Acts 16:31 and Matthew 18:20. In Acts, the jailor is taught about Jesus and faith includes repentance and baptism (Acts 16:32–34). In Matthew, the subject is not worship but church discipline (18:15–18).

Sometimes, a statement needs to be understood in light of the broader context. That would be the case regarding Pharaoh and Esau. The Lord hardened Pharaoh’s heart through the plagues, causing the Egyptian king to rebel against God’s will and choose pride over penitence. In the case of Esau, as Paul explains, the idea is of God’s sovereign choice. God was not unjust. He had a purpose for choosing Jacob over Esau (Romans 9:11).

Sometimes, a statement causes us to look deeper into all the Bible says about the subject. Consider the idea of calling on the name of the Lord to be saved. Rather than salvation by confession, the Bible teaches what is involved in calling on the name of the Lord. Ananias taught Saul that this is done when one is baptized, washing away sins (Acts 22:16).

When we are studying the Bible, we must always do so contextually. It makes the difference in the conclusions we draw. God expects us to “handle accurately the word of truth” (2 Timothy 2:15)! May we be the best Bible students we can be.

Wycliff's Bible's frontispiece

Richard Roberts in the Biblical Illustrator tells the story of a picture frontispiece, an illustration facing the title page of a book, in Wycliff's Bible.

It pictures a fire burning and spreading rather rapidly, representing true Christianity. Around this spreading fire are congregated a number of significant individuals, all trying to devise methods whereby they can put the fire out. One with horns and tail represents Satan. Another of red-coated false teachers, who forbade the promulgating of the Bible among the common people. Another represents infidelity.

At length one suggests that they all make a united effort to blow the fire out.

The resolution is adopted, and there they are, with swollen cheeks and extended lips, blowing upon the fire with all their might, but instead of blowing upon the fire with all their might, instead of blowing it out, they are blowing it up, and they only blow themselves out of breath.

The fire is inextinguishable. "The word of God, which liveth and abideth for ever" (1 Peter 1:23).

In 1908, Kahlil Gibran wrote an Arabic novel entitled, Spirits Rebellious. In it he included this timeless poem:

They burned Truth in the market place
And thought their work complete;

But next day, with a smiling face,
They met it on the street.

They threw it in a dungeon damp
And thought it was no more;
But lo, it walked with lighted lamp
Among them as before.

They scorned and ostracized it,
And ordered it to depart;
But still it dwelt in all the land
And challenged every heart.

Endures Forever."*

Text Messages from God

If you need comfort from God, look see His text message in 2 Corinthians 1:3–7.

If you want a reminder that God is in control, look in 1 John 4:4.

If you want reassurance that God loves you, look in Romans 5:8.

If you want God's advice about friends, see 1 Corinthians 15:33.

If you wonder if you should participate in something, see Philippians 4:8.

If you have been unmotivated in your job, look in Colossians 3:22.

If you want parental advice, look for God's text in Proverbs 22:6.

If you want to be a better husband, see God's text message in Ephesians 5:22–24.

If you want to be a better wife, see God's text in Ephesians 5:25–33.

If you are looking for patience, see God's text message in 1 Thessalonians 5:14.

If you look for hope, see 1 Peter 1:3–5.

If you are looking to be more humble, look in James 4:6.

Want to control your language? Look in Ephesians 4:32.

Need to stop anger? See Ephesians 4:26–27.

If you have been worried lately, look at God's text message in Philippians 4:6–7.

If you need a reminder of God's mercy, look in 1 Peter 1:3–4.

If you need motivation to keep pressing on, in Hebrews 12:1–2.

If you desire to be saved, see God's text message in Acts 2:38.

God's text messages can be accessed at any time. The more time we spend "texting" with God, the stronger our relationship with Him will become. —Brent Petrillo

Jesus, the Perfect Man

There is no other character in history like Jesus. As a preacher, as a doer of things, and as a philosopher, no man ever had the sweep and the vision of Jesus.

The system of ethics Jesus taught 2000 years ago was true then, has been true in every century since and will be true forever.

Not all the investigation of chemists, not all the discoveries of explorers, not all the experience of rule, not all the historical facts that go to make up the sum of human knowledge on this day are in contradiction to one word uttered or one principle laid by Jesus.

The human experience of 2000 years shows that Jesus never made a mistake. Jesus never uttered a doctrine that was true at that time and then became obsolete. Jesus spoke the truth; He lived the truth, and truth is eternal.

No poet, no dreamer, no philosopher loved humanity with the love that Jesus bore toward all men.

Who, then, was Jesus? He could not have been merely a man. Jesus must have been what Christianity proclaims Him to be—a divine being—or He could not have been what He was. No mind but an infinite mind could have left behind those things which Jesus gave to the world as a heritage. —Adapted from Blaise Pascal's Pensées (Thoughts) 1658
